MISSISSAUGA, Ontario, - August 8, 2008 – The Meeting House, a large Canadian church group in Ontario, has switched from Barracuda Spam Firewall to Jovian's Europa (the Anti-spam, Anti-virus & Fail-over Redundant Email Server Appliance) to protect its email environment against spam.

As IT Director, Larry Schultz explains: "We switched from Barracuda to Europa, because we did not have the functionality we wanted for our anti-spam protection in reports, and per-user protection. In addition, every time we upgraded our Barracuda we would have to rebuild our personal spam database. So we decided to try Europa anti-spam.

At the time we decided to try Europa, our IT team was required to do a lot of spam maintenance with our spam appliance. When people received viruses they forwarded the emails to the IT department and we marked spam that got through the appliance as spam in Barracuda. We know that there was end-user control but we did not want to install a client on all devices. Europa has per user control without installing a client on each computer, which is great, now users manage their own spam. This has allowed our IT team to spend very little time managing spam on a per user basis.

After upgrades we had to spend a lot of time rebuilding our database, because every time we did an upgrade our personal spam black and white lists were wiped out each time. Barracuda required us to re-categorize emails as spam or not spam. We do not have this issue with Europa.

Our team was also impressed that we got more features for the same price range of the Barracuda appliance we used. There were more reports, outbound white and blacklists, and much more.

The team at Jovian Technology is also great, and they provide very responsive and very knowledgeable service, and I get a greater return on my support contract with Jovian. We got the basic appliance previously, but the Europa allows us to have a more powerful appliance for the same price range of our previous spam solution.

To say the least, we are very satisfied with the Europa appliance, because we do not have to manage our spam appliance a lot, we have more features, and we feel much more confident in the appliance".
